

InfraScience Launches New Website to Announce Expanded Microsoft Services

New Corporate Identity expresses infrastructure services as an art and a science

Alpharetta, GA - (September 2, 2008) - InfraScience announced today the launch of www.infrascience.com. The new site is the capstone piece of the corporate identity that fundamentally drives the message that InfraScience provides a methodical approach, experienced professionals and verifiable results to enterprises looking for infrastructure services. InfraScience offers services in the following areas: identity and access management; messaging and collaboration; systems and operations management; security; deployment, and consolidation.

"The new brand showcases our belief that infrastructure is a science," Jeff Meyer, Principal Partner, InfraScience said. "With a methodical approach, we help companies make their infrastructure meet their needs using market leading Microsoft technology."

InfraScience offers:

- Results Focus Technology - InfraScience focuses on helping organizations leverage technology to facilitate clear business objectives, measurably improving efficiency, saving money and enhancing profitability
- Predictable Methodology - InfraScience believes and invests in repeatable, proven methodologies, which means organizations can count on predictable, measurable project returns
- Commitment – A long and growing list of satisfied clients and productive partners testifies to InfraScience's absolute, unwavering dedication to understanding and delivering on business goals
- Microsoft expertise - InfraScience is a Microsoft Gold Partner, which means Microsoft recognizes and endorses our ability to design and implement critical infrastructure technology solutions
